

Notifications Behavior

1. Notify only when there are questionnaires that require stakeholder attention option is turned on
  - When entities settings match the control target profile, only the controls and/or questionnaires associated with the control target profile are assigned to the stakeholders. As a result, when a workflow stage is transitioned, a notification is sent to the workflow stage stakeholders using the template that is defined for that particular stage. In case an entity settings do not match the control target profile, the controls and/or questionnaires are not assigned to the stakeholders, and as a result, the Message Center does not display the notification message.
2. Notify only when there are questionnaires that require stakeholder attention option is turned off
  - When the entity settings match the control target profile, only the controls and/or questionnaires associated with the control target profile are assigned to the stakeholders. As a result, when a workflow stage is transitioned, a notification is sent to the workflow stage stakeholders using the template that is defined for that particular stage. In case an entities settings that do not match the control target profile, the controls and/or questionnaires are not assigned to the stakeholders, however, the assessments continue to send the notifications.
