

Configuring Column Dashboards

This section explains how to add and configure analytical data into easy-to-read dashboards for reporting purposes. Dashboards within the RiskVision solution can be configured to have multiple columns to display different kinds of charts and data. Dashboards are a good way to showcase existing charts to help summarize information such as the current state of compliance for an organization. With the RiskVision solution, it is easy to lay out the dashboards and make changes to the layout as needed. You can edit a dashboard and add or remove a chart from the dashboard using the Dashboards and Reports View and Dashboards and Reports Author permissions.
